

PAT MOORE

EMPLOYEE BENEFITS CONSULTANT

Pat Moore specializes in identifying and implementing various employee benefits solutions to a wide range of industries. He and his team help clients focus beyond benefits to become better, smarter and more successful. Starting with MJ in October 2016, Pat brings nearly a decade of sales and industry experience to the team. His expertise lies in employee benefits strategy, plan design and cost containment initiatives.

As a consultative broker, Pat enjoys working with HR managers and corporate officers to both understand and align their overall business goals and objectives to their employee benefits programs. He and his team help to identify the primary cost drivers affecting their clients' benefit plans, and work to develop tailored solutions designed to mitigate costs while creating a comprehensive, forward-thinking program.

Outside of MJ, Pat's biggest passions are his family and sports. He and his wife share two young children, Landon and Berkeley. Pat is a fan of several Arizona sports teams, particularly the Arizona State Sun Devils, the Arizona Cardinals and Arizona Diamondbacks. Pat played golf professional for 3 years following his collegiate career at ASU and one day hopes to play Augusta National with his Dad. Also, not many people know that Pat completed Ironman Arizona in 2013!
