MJ Insurance Director of P&C Strategy & Operations Named Emerging Leader

Ryan Daniele recognized as one of the best and brightest rising talents in insurance

INDIANAPOLIS – (Nov. 28, 2018) – Ryan Daniele, director of P&C strategy & operations at MJ Insurance, was named an Emerging Leader and will be recognized at the Inaugural Emerging Leaders Conference in Miami next year.

The conference, hosted by the Property Casualty Insurers Association of America (PCI), the Insurance Careers Movement (ICM) and A.M. Best, will bring together 80 rising stars in the insurance industry who were chosen during a highly-competitive selection process and invited to attend an exclusive executive development and networking event in February 2019.

The conference was created in partnership with the ICM, an organization dedicated to spreading awareness about innovation and transformation in the insurance industry and address the pending talent shortage in the field. The conference is the next global industry initiative from ICM and will provide emerging leaders new perspectives on industry challenges, opportunities, and enterprise-wide leadership. The conference will include panel discussions from leading CEOs and industry icons, and provide a unique opportunity for industry recognition, professional development and networking.

Daniele has been with MJ Insurance since 2015 and was quickly promoted to his current role where he leads the risk management service and advocacy teams and develops tools and resources to support risk management strategy. He holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Kentucky and an MS-RMI from Florida State University.

"Ryan's passion and commitment to his role have made him a fantastic addition to the team and we are thrilled to see him recognized as an Emerging Leader," said Michael H. Bill, chief executive officer at MJ Insurance. "The Emerging Leader's conference will assist Ryan in accelerating his career path as we celebrate innovation in the insurance industry."
