

CHAD MILLER

CHIEF INFORMATION OFFICER

Chad Miller joined the MJ Insurance team in 2017 and serves as chief information officer. A 30-year technology veteran with expertise in enterprise data governance, ERP management, and systems development, Chad oversees the execution of MJ's digital vision and strategic direction of information technology. Prior to joining MJ, Chad spent over 25 years in informational technology roles in various industries. Most recently, Chad held the title of senior director of technology development at Butler University in Indianapolis.

At MJ, Chad leads a team dedicated to improving both the client and employee experience through technological advancement and enhanced digital strategies. He also serves on MJ's Value Creation Team. The VCT is a team committed to providing the strategic direction for the firm in alignment with our purpose.

Outside of MJ, Chad loves to spend time with his family and church community. He also loves walking outside and takes walks with his wife nearly everyday. Chad and his wife have three children of their own and are looking forward to the addition of grandchildren very soon! Being from the Cleveland area, Chad is a big Cavaliers and Browns fan.
